VOLUME TWOIntroduction

This second volume contains a catalogue of all glass remains of vessels discovered in Scandinavia prior to the summer of 1976. They are indexed by general area in the order Bornholm, Denmark, Gotland, Norway, Sweden and Öland. Within each area the locations of discovery are listed alphabetically and follow the criteria used by the national museum of each individual country. Sweden, for example is catalogued by parish name while Denmark adheres to a system based on names of towns or villages. In this respect the method is unfortunately inconsistent. However, any alteration would render the catalogue useless for searching in certain major museums.

Each individual glass remain is given a separate number and is listed with as much relevant information as possible. The vessel or fragment is described according to the criteria laid down in Volume One (chapter five) and this is followed by the name of the institution holding the item and the appropriate inventory number. Wherever possible relevant details of the archaeological context are included such as the type of burial and monument, the associated grave furnishings, the gender of the deceased and the position of the glass in relation to the body. Unless otherwise stated the dating given in the catalogue entries refers to the general dating of the archaeological context. Where this is impossible the glass may be dated by analogy but in such instances this is made clear in the text. The bibliographic references following each entry are to works in which that particular glass item is mentioned. I have attempted to include accounts of the excavation, general works on the period or area, specific works devoted to glass studies and museum inventories where those inventories are in published form.

Vessels or fragments which have been used for analytical purposes are followed by a sample number. These numbers relate to those used in Volume One in chapters seven and eight in the analysis of major elements and trace elements respectively.

A series of photographic plates appears at the end of the volume. 118 glasses or fragments of glasses are recorded. The plates cover the majority of types discussed and are a representative selection of types and condition of glass remain used in this study.

053-055. Himlingøje, Zealand. "Bavnehøj". Three glass vessels.

053. Glass cup. Straight body with foot-ring. Rim rounded and uneven. Unpainted. Opaque and badly weathered. N.M. Copenhagen 2703.

054. Glass beaker. Height 24.2 cm. Diameter of rim 10.5 cm. Diameter of foot 9.0 cm. Length of stem 1.5 cm. Straight profile. Foot rounded at edge and flattened. Stem convex. Rim rounded and out-turned. Band of criss-cross decoration with applied opaque blue and white trails on upper part of body approximately 4.5 cm. thick, bordered above and below by applied horizontal trails of opaque white. Zig-zag "snake" decoration on lower half of vessel in applied opaque blue and white. Horizontal band of opaque white around the centre of the stem. High quality craftsmanship shown by the formation of the foot and the application of the decorative trails. N.M. Copenhagen 3309.

055. Glass drinking horn. Horizontal length 24.0 cm. Diameter of rim 9.0 cm. Broad body to horn and narrow curved "mouthpiece". Rim rounded and out-turned. Applied trails wound around narrow end of vessel terminating at approximate point of maximum curvature. Applied trails in loop formation originating at this point and set spirally terminating 6.0 cm. below rim. Applied horizontal trail wound around vessel 3.0 cm below rim. Dark green. Many flaws. N.M. Copenhagen 3505.

EKERÖ (HELGÖ)

FOUNDATION I

547 - 615. Ekerö parish. Helgö, Uppland. Fragments of at least sixty-nine glass vessels.

FOUNDATION I

547. Fragments of glass bowl. Rounded body. Rim folded outwards and down leaving hollow. Applied filigree glass rods set radially from base to shoulder of vessel joining four closely set filigree rods applied horizontally. Filigree rods containing opaque yellow spirals. Light green. High quality vessel. Possible parallel from Valsgarde, Gamla Uppsala parish, Sweden (618) dated to the mid eighth century (Arwidsson 1942). S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 164:262 and plate 50:5.

Holmqvist & Arrhenius B. (1964) pp. 250 - 256 and fig. 112.

548. Fragments of glass bowl. Rounded body. No clearly defined neck or shoulder. Rim folded outwards and down leaving a hollow lip. Applied filigree glass rods set radially from base to approximately 2.0 cm. below top of rim. Applied opaque white threads wound horizontally around rim down rim to top of filigree rods. Filigree rods containing opaque white spirals. Light blue/green. High quality vessel. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 164:576 and plate 50:4.

Holmqvist & Arrhenius B. (1964) pp. 250 - 256 and fig. 114.

549. Fragments of glass bowl. Rounded body. Applied filigree glass rods set radially from base terminating at shoulder. Applied horizontal opaque yellow and white trails on shoulder of vessel joining the top 1.5 cm. of each filigree rod. Filigree spirals alternately opaque white and yellow. Reddish effect in alternate rods due to an internal longitudinal spiral giving a polychrome effect. Blue/green. High quality vessel. S.H.4. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 166:1322 and plate 50:6.

Holmqvist & Arrhenius B. (1964) pp. 250 - 256 and fig. 116.

550. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel probably some form of conical beaker. Applied vertical filigree rods terminating in area of applied horizontal opaque yellow trails. Filigree rods containing opaque yellow spirals. Yellow/green. High quality vessel. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 164:135 and plate 50:1-2.

Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) pp. 250 - 256 and fig. 115.

551. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel probably some form of bowl or jar. Clearly defined neck and shoulder. Rim rounded and out-turned. Six (?) applied vertical filigree rods set radially from base. Applied horizontal opaque yellow trails wound around neck. Filigree spirals in opaque yellow. Opaque dark red. High quality vessel. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 164:564 and plate 50:11-12.

Holmqvist & Arrhenius B. (1964) pp. 250 - 256 and fig. 113.

552. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable.
Rim folded outwards and down leaving hollow lip. Applied opaque white trails set horizontally around rim and upper neck.
Vessel light green. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 174:598 and plate 53:11.

Holmqvist & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 259 fig. 129.

553. Fragments of claw beaker. Hollow claw fragment suggests type of claw of elongated flattened appearance such as those on vessel from Valsgarde VI, Gamla Uppsala parish, Sweden (619).
Green containing red streak due to manufacturing flaw.
Holmqvist (1964) places this in the seventh century (1964).
S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 166:219 and plate 51:5.

Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 249 f.

554. Fragments of claw beaker. Hollow claw fragment with elongated flattened appearance such as those on vessel from Valsgarde VI, Gamla Uppsala parish, Sweden (619). Blue/green. Holmqvist (1964) places this in the seventh century. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 166:497 and plate 51:6-7.

Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 249 f.

555. Fragments of claw beaker. Solid claw fragment adhering to fragment of vessel. Wall of vessel follows inner contour of claw. Claw very bent indicating it was made to fit the sharply rounded body of the vessel. Bright green. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 166:2083 and plate 51:3-4.
- Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 249 f.
556. Fragments of claw beaker. Rim rounded, thickened and out-turned. Fragment of claw shows solid claw approximately 2.5 cm. in length. Traces of applied horizontal trails below rim. Light blue/green. Red streak in vessel suggests flaw in manufacturing process. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 166:1405 and plate 51:1-2.
- Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 249 f. and fig. 110.
557. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable although Holmqvist (1961) considers it to be a claw beaker. Fragments show indications of applied trails. Blue/green. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 166:643 and plate 51:9-11.

558. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable, although Holmqvist (1961) considers it to be a claw beaker. Blue green. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 174:626 and plate 51:12.

559. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable although Holmqvist (1961) considers it to be a claw beaker. Fragments show numerous oblong bubbles. Opaque light green. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 178:1093 and plate 51:13.

560. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable although Holmqvist (1961) considers it to be a claw beaker. Fragment shows applied fine trails. Blue/green. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 178:917 and plate 51:15.

561. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable although Holmqvist (1961) considers it to be a claw beaker. Blue. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 176 - 709 and plate 51:8.

562. Fragment of glass vessel. Type of vessel probably a claw beaker. Fragment part of applied horizontal band from around neck. Band decorated with vertical nipping. Light brown. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 168:64 and plate 53:7.
563. Fragment of glass vessel. Type of vessel probably a claw beaker. Fragment part of applied horizontal band from around neck. Band light blue. Vessel light purple. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 179:1177 and plate 53:6.
564. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable. Indications of applied horizontal trails. Pale blue. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 175:643.
- Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 257 and fig. 126.
565. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel possibly a claw beaker. Rim fragments rounded, thickened and in-turned. Applied horizontal opaque yellow trails around rim. Light green. S.H.M. Stockholm.
- Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 169:138 and plate 52:6.
- Holmqvist W. (1964) p. 257 and fig. III.

566. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable.
Diameter of rim 7.0 cm. Rim rounded, thickened and out-turned. Applied opaque yellow trails below rim. Light blue.
S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 169:177 and plate 52:8.
Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 257 f. and fig. 128.
567. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable.
Diameter of rim 5.5 cm. Rim rounded and out-turned. Rim deep blue/green. Vessel colourless. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 167:537 and plate 52:5.
Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 258 and fig. 130.
568. Fragments of funnel beaker. Estimated diameter of rim 10.0 cm.
Rounded base. Rim rounded and thickened. Applied horizontal opaque white trails set below rim. Indications of applied vertical trails set in loops and touching lowest horizontal trail at apex of loop. Light green. S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 167:622 and plate 52:7.
Holmqvist W. & Arrhenius B. (1964) p. 256 and fig. 121.
569. Fragments of glass vessel. Type of vessel indeterminable.
Indications of applied trails set in arcades. Extent of arcading not discernable. This type of decoration illustrated on funnel beaker from Birka 551 (507). Light green.

S.H.M. Stockholm.

Holmqvist W. (1961) p. 168:22 and plate 53:1.
